CALTIUS EQUITY PARTNERS INVESTS GROWTH CAPITAL IN ORTHOCLASSIC

Los Angeles, CA 8/18/2015 - Caltius Equity Partners has made an investment in World Class Technology Corporation, which manufactures and markets orthodontic and dental products under the OrthoClassic brand name. Located in McMinnville, Oregon, OrthoClassic uses specialized metal injection molding techniques to manufacture high quality technical products such as self-ligating brackets, braces and other consumables. OrthoClassic was advised in the transaction by Rod Royse of Cardinal Corporate Finance Group.

“OrthoClassic has designed and patented several new orthodontic products that provide more control and functionality in patient treatments which helps doctors reduce patient treatment times compared to competitors’ products,” said Garrick Ahn, Managing Director of Caltius. “In addition, OrthoClassic has developed some of the finest quality manufacturing techniques in the orthodontic industry. We’ve been very impressed with the business that Klaus and Rolf Hagelganz have built and we are excited to partner with the Hagelganz family as we embark on this new chapter of growth for OrthoClassic,” said Ahn.

“We have gotten to know the Caltius team quite well through the course of this transaction and appreciate their thoughtfulness and depth of understanding of our business and the opportunities for growth,” said Rolf Hagelganz, CEO of OrthoClassic. “This new investment will allow OrthoClassic to expand our presence in the market and better support our wide and growing customer base,” said Hagelganz.

Based in Los Angeles, Caltius Equity Partners has been making growth and control equity investments since 1999. In addition to business services, Caltius Equity Partners also invests in education, healthcare services, consumer products and light manufacturing industries.
